WINE HOST BIO

Bettina Sichel
Partner, Laurel Glen Vineyard

In 2011, Bettina Sichel became the steward of Laurel Glen Vineyard after purchasing the iconic estate from founder Patrick Campbell in partnership with a small group of wine lovers. Once considered one of the great Cabernets of California, the current chapter of Bettina's career is dedicated to rebuilding the quality and reputation of Laurel Glen Vineyard.

Bettina grew up in the wine business. She is the daughter of Peter M. F. Sichel, the man responsible for making his family's Blue Nun wine a household name around the world. She is also the fifth generation of the Sichel family to work in the wine business - and the first woman!

With over 30 years experience in sales and marketing in the wine business, Bettina has had the opportunity to launch, re-launch and build many brands. Most notably, she helped launch Quintessa in 1998 and developed the Napa Cabernet's reputation and profile distribution as Director of Sales & Marketing for its formative years.

Today, Bettina lives in beautiful Sonoma, where she enjoys drinking the wines of her many talented neighbors (although her first love will always be German Riesling).
